

Dr. Torbati,

I have had many instructors but only a few have managed to leave an indelible mark.

After this weekend, I can honestly say, you are in a class of your own.

Your teaching style and approach to learning is exactly what I needed to stay motivated and to continue to persevere. You made me believe, I can.

Too often, instructors forget that as adult learners, we do not absorb information in the same manner as would a younger student. The traditional system of teaching, memorization of facts and exams are not always conducive to acquiring knowledge and based on my experience, it is difficult to transfer that knowledge to others when it is not fully understood.

Your style is learner centered. I have learned about motivation in past classes but it was only after your class that I finally understood what motivation is all about. By conceptualizing the subject matter, and by using positive reinforcements, the message is clear.

Thank you, thank you, thank you. Your passion and dedication to teaching is unsurpassed; may God continue to bless you and give you strength to continue teaching..many more learners are out there waiting for effective teachers like you.

I can't wait for the next class..mind mapping.

Have a nice and blessed day.
